TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ is not a provider of cancer care. It does not profess to be an expert in these matters. The clinical trials webpage does not contain an exhaustive list of all of the trials which are ongoing for carcinoid cancer. One aim of TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ TM is simply to make visitors aware of the existence of some of these clinical trials. This website does not recommend any specific individual course of treatment or clinical trial. Treatments and clinical trials are listed in an arbitrary or random order. Clinical trials occurring in other countries, may not be approved by the U.S. FDA and may not meet the standards of the FDA.

Any papers or other information that are written for the site by principals to the site and/or by the information services arm of TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ TM, are intended for educational purposes only, and are intended to help visitors round out their understanding of some of the complexities and difficulties involved in the research, diagnosis, treatment and care of patients with carcinoid cancer. These writings may contain information that is outdated, lacks context, is inaccurate or is misleading, and thus these writings should not be relied upon for any reason. The bibliography - links related to treatments and to clinical trials may or may not be from peer-reviewed medical journals, are provided for informational purposes only, may overstate the results of the value of the trial, may lack context, may be inaccurate, may be outdated, and thus they should not be relied upon for any reason.

Although the Foundation receives most of its funds from all segments of the general public, the Foundation also from time to time receives unrestricted educational grants and sponsored advertisements from for-profit organizations. TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ maintains a strict policy of neutrality uninfluenced by such grants since the Foundation's invaluable mainstay is its credibility and the responsibility to offer unbiased mainstream medical information to viewers of its site.
The News, Archives, and Reference sections should not be relied upon as it consists of abstracted or full information from wire-service press releases, company press releases, news articles, medical journal abstracts and medical abstracts which, among other possible problems, may represent a poor sampling of contemporaneous information, may slant the information due to truncation or skewing secondary to the abstracting process, may require a higher level of expertise than the staff of TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ TM possesses in order to screen and interpret and express such information properly, and may rely upon releases and articles which are misleading or false AND thus may give misleading or false information, may come from self-interested parties, may not be timely, may present misleading headlines AND may present false or incomplete research and/or research results.

TheCarcinoid Cancer Foundation™ TM does not certify the accuracy, appropriateness, completeness, or currency of any books or other publications which may be highlighted on the Carcinoid.org website. Any such books or other publications may contain wrong and inappropriate information. They are placed on the page by way of informing the public about the existence of such works. Such books or other publications should additionally not be relied upon as their selection or even description may require a higher level of expertise than the staff of The Carcinoid Cancer FoundationTM possesses in order to fully evaluate or express properly.
